I. Cases holding that mandating individual to Alcoholics Anonymous/Narcotics Anonymous (AA/NA) is a violation of the First Amendment

Sundquist v. State, 122 F. Supp. 3d 876 (D. Nebraska 2015) (Sundquist may have agreed to participate in A.A. as a term of his probationary license. But that choice — to participate in A.A. or lose his livelihood — may have been the result of state-sponsored coercion rather than a voluntary choice. See Jackson, 747 F.3d at 541. At this stage of litigation, it is too early to say that by agreeing, Sundquist has forfeited his claim. In sum, the Court finds that Sundquist has alleged a plausible claim under the Establishment Clause, and that defendants Vierk and Schuldt are not entitled to qualified immunity, because the rights sought to be vindicated implicate firmly grounded Constitutional principles.)

Jackson v. Nixon, 747 F. 3d 537 (8th Cir. 2014) (Concluding that based on the allegations in the complaint, Randall Jackson has pled facts sufficient to state a claim that a parole stipulation requiring him to attend and complete a substance abuse program with religious content in order to be eligible for early parole violates the Establishment Clause of the First Amendment.)

Hazle v. Crofoot, 727 F.3d 983 (9th Cir. 2013) (noting with approval the granting of summary judgment for plaintiff on his claim that forcing him into a 12 step religious based treatment program, when he was an atheist, was a violation of the First Amendment and granting a new trial on Plaintiffs' request for compensatory damages. Instead of a retrial, the matter was reportedly settled with the state paying $1M and the treatment agency $925K, see <http://www.sacbee.com/news/local/crime/article2768782.html>)

Hazle v. Crofoot, 2:08-cv-02295-GEB-KJM (E. D. Calif. 4-6-2010) (granting summary judgment for plaintiff on his claim that forcing him into a 12 step religious based treatment program, when he was an atheist, was a violation of the First Amendment)

Norton v. Kootenai County, CV09-58-N-EJL (D. Idaho 9-11-2009) (where claimant originally asked to go to facility that used AA, and never notified his probation officer of his religious objection to going to AA meetings, no First Amendment violation)

http://scholar.google.com/scholar\_case?case=18349691828430296020&q=norton+v.+Kootenai&hl=en&as\_sdt=2,6

Thorne v. Hale, No. 1:08cv601 (JCC), 2009 WL 980136 (E.D. Va. 2009)

http://scholar.google.com/scholar\_case?case=9882479498204455501&q=Thorne+v.+Hale&hl=en&as\_sdt=2,6

(holding that a valid § 1983 civil rights claim was presented in the complaint, where the complaint stated that Hale and Killian were to some extent responsible for implementing the treatment regimen which included mandatory participation in AA/NA); Compl. at 15, Thorne v. Hale, No. 1:08cv601 (JCC), 2009 WL 980136 (E.D. Va. Mar. 26, 2009) (claiming that Killian "was responsible for all recommendations to Drug Court for treatment and clinical matters," including "substance abuse issues."); id. at 76 (claiming that Thorne was "subjected to the State religions of AA and NA by . . . [the] directors" of the Drug Court and the RACSB); id. at 89 (alleging due process deprivations by the "Directors" of the RACSB and the Drug Court). Members of the drug court ultimately prevailed in the Thorne v. Hale litigation, when the trial court granted summary judgment on the basis of absolute judicial immunity and dismissed the case. Id. The Fourth Circuit affirmed the granting of the summary judgment motion. Thorne v. Hale, No. 09-2305, WL1018048 (4th Cir. Mar. 19, 2010)

http://scholar.google.com/scholar\_case?case=9925630720285928564&q=Thorne+v.+Hale&hl=en&as\_sdt=2,6

Thorne v. Hale is noteworthy, even in light of the dismissal, because the initial dismissal motion was denied and because, when coupled with Hanas v. Inner City Christian Outreach, the authority makes it patently clear that First Amendment violations can have consequences for drug court staff. Id. Hanas, 542 F. Supp. 2d at 683.

Hanas v. Inner City Christian Outreach, 542 F. Supp. 2d 683, 683 (E.D. Mich. 2008) (holding that the drug court program manager and the drug court consultant were liable for actions related to referral to faith based program, when they knew of participant's objections while in the program, and when the program denied the participant the opportunity to practice his chosen faith – Catholicism)

http://scholar.google.com/scholar\_case?case=5458674509981881408&q=542+F.+Supp.+2d+683&hl=en&as\_sdt=2,6

Americans United v. Prison Fellowship, 509 F.3d 406, 406 (8th Cir. 2007) (holding that a state supported non-coercive, non-rewarding faith based program violated the Establishment Clause of the U.S. Constitution because an alternative was not available).

http://scholar.google.com/scholar\_case?case=1650492194115222295&q=509+F.3d+406&hl=en&as\_sdt=2,6

Inouye v. Kemna, 504 F.3d 705, 705 (9th Cir. 2007) (concluding that parole officer had lost qualified immunity because he forced AA on Buddhist)

http://scholar.google.com/scholar\_case?case=6773570865128492755&q=504+F.3d+705&hl=en&as\_sdt=2,6

In re Garcia, 24 P.3d 1091, 1091 (Wash. Ct. App. 2001) (given the non-religious classes available to Garcia, we conclude that DOC did not coerce him into participating in a religious program)

http://scholar.google.com/scholar\_case?case=2996807561227974850&q=24+p3d+1091&hl=en&as\_sdt=2,6

Bausch v. Sumiec, 139 F. Supp. 2d 1029, 1029 (E.D. Wis. 2001) (an offender cannot be said to have freely chosen a religiously-oriented treatment program as an alternative to revocation unless a meaningful secular alternative is also offered)

http://scholar.google.com/scholar\_case?case=17450274633821327793&q=139+f+supp+2d+1029&hl=en&as\_sdt=2,6

Alexander v. Schenk, 118 F. Supp. 2d 298, 300 n.1 (N.D. NY 2000) (The sincerity of Plaintiff's professed religious beliefs has no bearing on the Constitutional issue of whether Defendants coerced him into participating in religion or its exercise.)

http://scholar.google.com/scholar?hl=en&as\_sdt=2%2C6&q=118+F.+Supp.+2d+298&btnG=Search

Yates v. Cunningham, 70 F. Supp. 2d 47, 49 (D.N.H. 1999) (injunctive relief was moot remedy and damages barred by immunity, when defendant sought order barring defendants from conditioning early release or parole on a prisoner's attendance at AA-based programs, and forcing defendants to recognize Rational Recovery as a viable alternative to AA-based programs)

http://scholar.google.com/scholar?hl=en&q=70+F.+Supp.+2d+47&btnG=Search&as\_sdt=2%2C6&as\_ylo=&as\_vis=0

Arnold v. Tenn. Bd. of Trs., 956 S.W. 2d 478, 484 (Tenn. 1997) (mandating a religious based 12 step program without a secular alternative violates the Establishment Clause)

http://scholar.google.com/scholar\_case?case=9142022272374642798&q=956+sw+2d+478&hl=en&as\_sdt=2,6

Warner v. Orange County Dep't of Prob., 115 F.3d 1068, 1068 (2d Cir. 1997), aff'd, 173 F.3d 120 (2d Cir. 1999), cert. denied, 528 U.S. 1003 (1999) (holding that the county governmental agency violated the Establishment Clause by requiring DUI probationer to participate in A.A.)

http://scholar.google.com/scholar\_case?case=17331435830841493108&q=115+f3d+1068&hl=en&as\_sdt=2,6

Warburton v. Underwood, 2 F. Supp. 2d 306, 316-318 (W.D.N.Y 1998) (The emphasis placed on God, spirituality and faith in a "higher power" by twelve-step programs such as A.A. or N.A. clearly supports a determination that the underlying basis of these programs is religious and that participation in such programs constitutes a religious exercise. It is an inescapable conclusion that coerced attendance at such programs therefore violates the Establishment Clause.)

http://scholar.google.com/scholar\_case?case=5059904284110410724&q=2+F.+Supp.+2d+306&hl=en&as\_sdt=2,6

Griffin v. Coughlin, 673 N.E.2d 98, 98 (N.Y. 1996), cert. denied, 519 U.S. 1054 (1997) (holding that conditioning desirable privilege – family visitation – on prisoner’s participation in program that incorporated Alcoholics Anonymous doctrine was unconstitutional because it violated the Establishment Clause)

http://scholar.google.com/scholar\_case?case=2268165578140839775&q=673+ne2d+98&hl=en&as\_sdt=2,6

Kerr v. Farrey, 95 F.3d 472, 479-80 (7th Cir. 1996) (holding that the prison violated the Establishment Clause by requiring attendance at Narcotics Anonymous meetings which used “God” in its treatment approach)

http://scholar.google.com/scholar\_case?case=17688666629648849733&q=95+f3d+472&hl=en&as\_sdt=2,6

II. Cases discussing providing a secular alternative as an option will validate a referral to religious based programs like AA/NA as a component of treatment

Americans United v. Prison Fellowship, 509 F.3d 406, 406 (8th Cir. 2007) (holding that a state supported non-coercive, non-rewarding faith based program violated the Establishment Clause of the U.S. Constitution because an alternative was not available).

http://scholar.google.com/scholar\_case?case=1650492194115222295&q=509+F.3d+406&hl=en&as\_sdt=2,6

Turner v. Hickman, 342 F. Supp.2d 887 (E. D. Calif. 9-30-2004) (granting injunction in prisoners favor, which removed any non-compliance with NA from his record and required secular option, even though secular alternative now available because without injunction “it would leave defendants free to return to their old ways.”)

http://scholar.google.com/scholar\_case?case=16036211204263324049&q=342+F.+Supp.2d+887+&hl=en&as\_sdt=2,6

Freedom from Religion Foundation, Inc. v. McCallum, No. 00-C-617-C (W. D. Wis. 2002) (no First Amendment violation, when secular alternative available)
http://scholar.google.com/scholar\_case?case=3528166872035728027&q=Freedom+from+Religious+Foundation+v.+McCallum&hl=en&as\_sdt=2,6

In re Garcia, 24 P.3d 1091, 1093 (Wash. Ct. App. 2001) (holding that mandating attendance AA/NA classes does violate the Establishment Clause. But where, as here, alternative classes without religious-based content are provided, there is no constitutional violation.)
http://scholar.google.com/scholar\_case?case=2996807561227974850&q=24+p3d+1091&hl=en&as\_sdt=2,6

O'Connor v. California, 855 F. Supp. 303, 308 (C.D. Cal. 1994) (finding that the Establishment Clause was not violated because the DUI probationer had several choices of programs, including self-help programs that are not premised on monotheistic deity)
http://scholar.google.com/scholar\_case?case=4837802521823530663&q=855+F+Supp+303&hl=en&as\_sdt=2,6

III. Cases holding that attendance at AA/NA does not establish a cleric-congregant relationship subject to protection by an evidentiary privilege

Cox v. Miller, 296 F.3d 89, 89 (2d Cir. 2002) (holding that a confession to murder in an AA meeting was not protected by cleric-congregant privilege, despite 5th step requiring participant to admit to God, other human beings, and themselves the exact nature of their wrongs).
http://scholar.google.com/scholar\_case?case=1638880198743832546&q=296+f.3d+89&hl=en&as\_sdt=2,6

U.S. v. Schwensow, 151 F.3d 650 (7th Cir. 1998) (AA volunteer phone operators, were not counselors or therapists)
http://scholar.google.com/scholar\_case?case=1840456274114163804&q=151+F.3d+650+&hl=en&as\_sdt=2,6

State v. Boobar, 637 A.2d 1162 (Me. 1994) (under Maine evidentiary privilege statute, therapist-patient privilege not apply to AA peer group sessions)
http://scholar.google.com/scholar\_case?case=10544480860195650665&q=637+A.2d+1162+&hl=en&as\_sdt=2,6

IV. Cases holding that place restrictions on the drug court participant are constitutional, when reasonably related to rehabilitative needs.

State v. Klie, 174 P.3d 358 (Hawaii 2007) (supporting a prohibition against entering Waikiki area)

http://scholar.google.com/scholar\_case?case=1395175895813715975&q=174+P.3d+358+&hl=en&as\_sdt=2,6

People v. Rizzo, 842 N.E.2d 727, 727 (Ill. App. Ct. 2005) (factors often used in determining whether the restriction is reasonable include whether the defendant has a compelling need to go through/to the area; a mechanism for supervised entry into the area; the geographic size of the restricted area, and the relationship between the restriction and the rehabilitation needs of the offender.)

http://scholar.google.com/scholar\_case?case=16907582701113798578&q=842+N.E.2d+727&hl=en&as\_sdt=2,6

State v. Wright, 739 N.E.2d 1172, 1172 (Ohio Ct. App. 2000) (reversing prohibition of entering any place where alcohol is distributed, served, consumed, given away, or sold because it restricted the defendant from grocery stores and the vast majority of all residences)

http://scholar.google.com/scholar\_case?case=14175778422370973989&q=739+N.E.2d+1172&hl=en&as\_sdt=2,6

Johnson v. State, 547 So. 2d 1048, 1048 (Fla. Dist. Ct. App. 1989) (prohibiting defendant from being near high drug areas)

http://scholar.google.com/scholar\_case?case=1077229507144656336&q=547+So.+2d+1048&hl=en&as\_sdt=2,6

People v. Pickens, 542 N.E.2d 1253, 1253 (Ill. App. Ct. 1989) (prohibition against entering town of Champaign, Ill. reasonably related to rehabilitation)

http://scholar.google.com/scholar\_case?case=18256720868183093258&q=542+N.E.2d+1253&hl=en&as\_sdt=2,6

People v. Beach, 195 Cal. Rptr. 381, 385 (Cal. Ct. App. 1983) (holding unconstitutional defendant's banishment from the community where she has lived for the last 24 years)

http://scholar.google.com/scholar\_case?case=11210170199089986765&q=195+Cal.+Rptr.+381&hl=en&as\_sdt=2,6

Oyoghok v. Municipality of Anchorage, 641 P.2d 1267, 1267 (Alaska Ct. App. 1982) (conditioning probation on not being within a two block radius in an area where red light area existed)

http://scholar.google.com/scholar\_case?case=17835708344206218711&q=641+P.2d+1267&hl=en&as\_sdt=2,6

State v. Morgan, 389 So. 2d 364, 364 (La. 1980) (prohibiting entrance into the French Quarter)

http://scholar.google.com/scholar\_case?case=18412931191564067908&q=389+So.+2d+364&hl=en&as\_sdt=2,6

V. Cases finding association restrictions constitutionally permissible, when reasonable related to rehabilitative needs of the offender

People v. Amparan, No. F064011, Court of Appeals of California, Fifth District, Filed July 1, 2013. NOT SELECTED (probation terms in drug court, including association restrictions were not unconstitutionally vague)

http://scholar.google.com/scholar\_case?case=7927684534390405129&q=People+v.+Amparan&hl=en&as\_sdt=4006&as\_ylo=2012

Malone v. State 2012 Ark. App. 280, (Opinion Delivered April 25, 2012) (The court said Malone had previously been afforded leniency and ordered to drug court. As a condition of that sentence she was prohibited from consorting with felons. However, as the trial court noted, after completing the alternative program, she once again involved herself with known felons, such as Sparks. The court then concluded that because "she put herself back in a position to be involved with people that she was already trained and educated on through Drug Court not to be with . . . she does not earn the right to get a probationary sentence.)

State v. LeClech, Washington Court of Appeals, NOT SELECTED (6/15/15) (Where defendant asserted due process violation for not being permitted to be present at staffing, Appellate court rejected assertion finding he had waived right to be present and further noted: The Washington and United States Constitution guarantee a criminal defendant's "fundamental right to be present at all critical stages of a trial." Washington courts analyze alleged violations of a defendant's right to be present by applying federal due process jurisprudence. This court reviews de novo a claimed violation of the right to be present. A defendant's right to be present at a proceeding is required "whenever his presence has a relation, reasonably substantial, to the fullness of his opportunity to defend against the charge." However, this right is not absolute. "[T]he presence of a defendant is a condition of due process to the extent that a fair and just hearing would be thwarted by his absence." Thus, the right is not triggered when a defendant's "presence would be useless, or the benefit but a shadow."...Just as closed staffings are critical to the success of drug court in the context of public trial rights, the presence of the defendant at staffings would frustrate the collaborative purpose of drug court. In this setting, LeClech does not establish a violation of his right to be present.)

State v. Workman, 22 Neb. App. 223 (2014) (The minimal due process to which a parolee or probationer is entitled also applies to participants in the drug court program. This minimal due process includes (1) written notice of the time and place of the hearing; (2) disclosure of evidence; (3) a neutral fact finding body or person, who should not be the officer directly involved in making recommendations; (4) opportunity to be heard in person and to present witnesses and documentary evidence; (5) the right to cross-examine adverse witnesses, unless the hearing officer determines that an informant would be subjected to risk of harm if his or her identity were disclosed or unless the officer otherwise specifically finds good cause for not allowing confrontation; and (6) a written statement by the fact finder as to the evidence relied on and the reasons for revoking the conditional liberty. The standard of proof for termination from drug court participation is preponderance of the evidence.)

State v. Bishop, 429 N.J. Super. 533 (2013), affirmed, per curiam, 10/21/15, (Recognizing that both drug court and traditional court defendants should be similarly treated upon probation revocation, the court said: "The carrot-and-stick approach is integral to the Drug Court concept. Prison-bound offenders are given an opportunity to be diverted from a state prison sentence if they are willing to avail themselves of the rehabilitative opportunities available in Drug Court in an effort to free themselves from the recurring cycle of drug dependency and criminal activity. The legislative history of the 1999 amendments includes the Report to the Governor by the Attorney General on the Need to Update the Comprehensive Drug Reform Act of 1987, December 9, 1996. That document "call[ed] for new ways to support drug court programs. One way is to provide judges with new legal tools with which to 'leverage' addicts into treatment." Id. at 18 (emphasis added). The legislation that followed created special probation, as distinguished from regular probation, and established the new resentencing provision applicable upon revocation of special probation..... The ultimate motivation or leverage, a tool needed to enable Drug Courts to operate effectively, is the threat of the substantial sentence that would have been imposed originally if the defendant were not admitted to Drug Court through special probation.")

Gross v. State of Maine, Superior Court case # CR-11-4805 (2/26/13)(drug court procedures relating to termination violative of due process and, therefore, unconstitutional. Drug Court participant entitled to: notice of the termination allegations and the evidence against him, right to call and x-examine witnesses, a hearing at which he is present, a neutral magistrate, written factual findings and the right to counsel. Here, the drug court team discussed the termination decision during the termination hearing, without defendant's presence or that of his counsel. That procedure coupled by the fact the Superior Court felt that the drug court judge should have recused, resulted in a finding of constitutional infirmity. Moreover, the appellate court ruled the defendant did not, arguably could not prospectively waive his rights, citing LaPlaca and Staley.

Maggard v. Commonwealth , Not Selected for Publication , (Ky. App., 2015)(no due process violation when defendant terminated from drug court based upon certification of violations, prepared by a drug court employee, alleging Maggard had absconded from the Fayette County Drug Court Program; had dirty and/or diluted urine screens on four dates; six missed urine screens; and four other events of note: not having a meeting sheet; missing curfew; dishonesty-not maintaining employment; and her inability to produce a sample. Defendant had a hearing and had the ability to call witnesses. The fact that the court relied on hearsay did not constitute a due process violation citing US Supreme Court cases Morrissey and Gagnon.)

State v. Tatlow, 231 Ariz. 34, 290 P.3d 228 ( 2012) (Here, as in many drug court matters, Tatlow's participation in the program was a condition of his probation and release. [Federal Confidentiality Regulations] Section 2.35 plainly contemplates that failure to successfully complete a drug court program may result in the disclosure of adverse information to justice system personnel. Indeed, section 2.35(d) provides that such information may be "redisclose[d] and use[d]" to carry out official duties with regard to the participant's release from custody. (Emphasis added.) This provision makes clear that the trial judge was not required to forget that she had terminated Tatlow from the drug court program. The court's judicial notice of its own order — whether considered a "redisclosure" of information to the court system or "use" of information by the court system — was therefore entirely proper.[4] The expiration of the Consent and Waiver could have operated to prevent use of information that came into the court's possession after it had expired, but it did not prevent use of information of which the court became aware during its effective period.)

XII. Judicial Impartiality and Due Process

Minnesota v. Cleary, No. A15-1493 (Court of Appeals of Minnesota July 5, 2016.) (When the sole basis for revoking probation is a probationer's termination from drug court and the drug court judge participated in the drug court team's decision to terminate the probationer from drug court, a probationer is entitled to have a judge other than the drug court judge preside over the probation revocation hearing, because of the appearance of lack of impartiality)

State v. McGill, No. M2015-01929-CCA-R3-CD. (Tenn: Court of Criminal Appeals 7/18/2016) (Based on this Court's ruling in Donte Dewayne Watson, No. M2015-00108-CCA-R3-CD, 2016 WL 791563 (Tenn. Crim. App. Mar. 1, 2016), we conclude that there is no clear and unequivocal rule of law that a trial judge must recuse himself simply because he was also a member of a defendant's drug court team. There must be some proof in the record that the trial judge either received ex parte communications or was actively involved in the defendant's treatment in order to show that the trial judge was neither neutral nor detached. In this case, there is no proof in the record that the trial court judge was privy to any ex parte communications regarding the subject matter of Defendant's community corrections violation or that he relied upon information learned during the course of the drug court program without giving Defendant a fair chance for rebuttal.)

Gross v. State of Maine, Superior Court case # CR-11-4805 (2/26/13)(drug court procedures relating to termination violative of due process and, therefore, unconstitutional. Drug Court participant entitled to: notice of the termination allegations and the evidence against him, right to call and x-examine witnesses, a hearing at which he is present, a neutral magistrate, written factual findings and the right to counsel. Here, the drug court team discussed the termination decision during the termination hearing, without defendant's presence or that of his counsel. That procedure coupled by the fact the Superior Court felt that the drug court judge should have recused, resulted in a finding of constitutional infirmity. Moreover, the appellate court ruled the defendant did not, arguably could not prospectively waive his rights, citing LaPlaca and Staley.

XIII. Drug Court Sanctions and Due Process

Taylor v. State, CR-15-0354 (Ala. Crim. App. 9/9/16) (Sanctioning hearing using hearsay not due process violation. Concurrence: I realize that developing specific procedures for handling drug-court sanctions can be an arduous task — especially given the dearth of case law in this State addressing drug-court programs. I would encourage other drug-court judges in this State either to use or to develop a drug-court-sanction procedure similar to the one outlined in this Court's opinion (ie: provision of a hearing). I would also recommend to other drug-court professionals that they take advantage of the vast training resources and educational opportunities available through the National Association of Drug Court Professionals.)

Mississippi Commission on Judicial Performance v. Thompson, 169 So. 3d 857 (Miss Supreme Court 5/21/2015) (Drug Court Judge removed from office for, inter alia, sanctioning individuals to jail without according due process of hearing. Judge Thompson's conduct of depriving participants in drug court of their due-process rights when he signed orders of contempt without the persons being properly notified of the charge of contempt or a right to a hearing, and by conducting "hearings" immediately after "staffing meetings" without adequate time for the persons to have proper counsel or evidence presented, violated Canons 1, 2A, 3B(1), 3B(2), 3B(4), 3B(8), and constitutes willful misconduct in office and conduct prejudicial to the administration of justice.)

Ind. 10-17-2014) (denying a motion to dismiss lawsuit against a former Drug Court Judge, who was alleged to have incarcerated drug court participants for lengthy periods without due process of law. State v. Stewart, (Tenn. Crim. App. 8-18-2010) (Not Selected for Official Publication) (Having reviewed the record, we are additionally troubled by the four or five occasions where the defendant in this case was "sanctioned" to significant jail time by the drug court team during the two years he participated in the program.

Leaving aside (as we must) the obvious due process concerns attendant to any additional deprivation of the defendant's liberty that has been imposed through a collaborative, non-adversarial, and at times ex parte process rather than through a traditional adversarial evidentiary hearing, there is considerable tension between this outcome and the general guidelines under which drug courts should operate. The drug court program explicitly recognizes that alcohol and drug addition "is a chronic, relapsing condition," that "many participants [will] exhibit a pattern of positive urine tests," and expressly contemplates that many participants will experience periods of relapse "[e]ven after a period of sustained abstinence.")

Tyler T., 279 Neb. 806, 806 (2010) ("Given the therapeutic component of problem-solving-court programs, we are not prepared to say that each and every action taken in such a proceeding must be a matter of record. But we have no difficulty in concluding that when a judge of a problem-solving court conducts a hearing and enters an order affecting the terms of the juvenile's probation, the proceeding must be on the record. We agree with other courts which have held that where a liberty interest is implicated in problem-solving-court proceedings, an individual's due process rights must be respected.").

State v. Maurer, 105 A. 3d 637 ( NJ: Appellate Div. 2014) (The disparity in this case is highlighted by the fact that now offenders convicted of second-degree robbery armed with a non-deadly weapon are permitted to enter Drug Court while Track Two offenders like defendant, who recently committed a third-degree drug offense and years earlier had been convicted of a weapons charge are barred entry. It is simply not fair that defendant's record would disqualify him under one track but not the other. There is no valid policy consideration to support that result and the distinction subverts, rather than supports, the policy to admit drug-addicted offenders into the program.

Our opinion is supported by the Legislature's decision to remove the prosecutor's ability to object to a defendant's admission to Drug Court subject only to proof that his or her decision was a patent or gross abuse of discretion. By its action, the Legislature clearly evinced an intention to rely on a judge's discretion and ability to better determine admission without continuing the prosecutor's right to veto.

Our decision does not, however, result in defendant's automatic admission to Drug Court; it only allows his application to be considered despite his earlier weapons offense. On remand, the court must now consider relevant factors specific to defendant, guiding Drug Court admission, including his dangerousness to the community while on probation, whether he is in fact drug dependent; and defendant's entire criminal history, including his weapons conviction, along with any other factor impacting this determination.)

State v. DeGroat, NJ: Appellate Div. 2016 (Distinguishing Maurer above--- We conclude that Maurer is inapplicable to the case under review. Here, the statute and the Drug Court Manual conform, in that an individual convicted of aggravated assault would be ineligible for Drug Court under either Track One or Track Two. See N.J.S.A. 2C:35-14(a)(7); Drug Court Manual, supra, at 11, 16. Maurer presented a unique factual situation which highlighted an unjust disparity with "no valid policy consideration to support that result." Maurer, supra, 438 N.J. Super. at 418. We will therefore not divert from existing substantive law, court rules, and directives for this matter.)

Gross v. State of Maine, Superior Court case # CR-11-4805 (2/26/13) (drug court procedures relating to termination violative of due process and, therefore, unconstitutional. Drug Court participant entitled to: notice of the termination allegations and the evidence against him, right to call and x-examine witnesses, a hearing at which he is present, a neutral magistrate, written factual findings and the right to counsel. Here, the drug court team discussed the termination decision during the termination hearing, without defendant's presence or that of his counsel. That procedure coupled by the fact the Superior Court felt that the drug court judge should have recused, resulted in a finding of constitutional infirmity. Moreover, the appellate court ruled the defendant did not, arguably could not prospectively waive his rights, citing LaPlaca and Staley.

XVII. Right to Treatment and Drug Courts

State v. Loomis, 2016 WI 68 (Wisc. 2016) (consideration of risk assessment, such as COMPAS, at sentencing is permissible, reliance on such a tool is violation of due process because it would be sentencing on group data and the Constitution requires individualized sentencing.)

Watson v. Kentucky, ____ F. Supp. 2d ____, (E.D. Kentucky 7/7/15)( At the hearing, Watson requested the state court take her off the conditional release terms or remove the "blanket prohibition on her taking Suboxone, Methadone or any other drugs that she needs" to treat her addiction. The state attorney clarified that there was not a blanket prohibition on MAT drug use, but that "it's generally the Court's practice to allow [MAT drug use] if the doctor will show [] medical need." The court agreed and instructed Watson to produce "medical proof and recommendations from a treating physician" that she needs to use MAT drugs as part of her treatment.. Watson also asked the state court to declare Kentucky's policy with regards to MAT drugs in violation of the Americans with Disabilities Act ("ADA"), the Rehabilitation Act. The state court denied Watson's request. At the hearing, Watson did not raise any other claims, constitutional or otherwise. Watson filed a complaint in federal court challenging the medication condition. She claims that conditioning her use of narcotics on a court's review of a doctor's note violates the ADA, the Rehabilitation Act, the Equal Protection and Due Process Clauses of the United States Constitution, and § 2 of the Kentucky Constitution. Watson asks the Court to enjoin the Kentucky Administrative Office of the Courts from enforcing the medication condition. Held: Younger v. Harris, 401 U.S. 37 (1971) bars Watson's claims because they can be adequately dealt with in state court.)

State v. Sykes, 339 P. 3d 972 (Wash. 12/18/14) (Adult drug courts are philosophically, functionally, and intentionally different from ordinary criminal courts. Based on their unique characteristics, we hold that adult drug court staff meetings are not subject to the open courts provision of article I, section 10 of the Washington State Constitution. Whether adult drug court staff meetings are presumptively open or closed is left to the discretion of the individual drug courts.)

State v. Plouffe, 2014 MT 183, 329 P.3d 1255 (Mont. 2014) (Under statewide drug court protocols, defendant had to be honest and treatment providers could not use drug court disclosed information, such as drug testing with individuals not part of the drug court team. When non-team members obtained statements from the drug court participant under circumstances where he was in a penalty position, the statements were not admissible. Plouffe was impermissibly required to "choose between making incriminating statements and jeopardizing his conditional liberty by remaining silent," Fuller, 276 Mont. at 166-67, 915 P.2d at 816 (citing Murphy, 465 U.S. at 436, 104 S. Ct. at 1147), because Plouffe believed that he had to answer questions honestly in order to comply with Treatment Court rules.)

State v. Shively, 323 P. 3d 1211 (Arizona Appeals, Division 1 5/13/14) (Insufficient evidence supported the superior court's conclusion that Shively "refused" drug treatment within the meaning of § 13-901.01(G). The only evidence offered at the hearing was that Shively used and possessed heroin while in a residential drug treatment program. But we have held that "evidence that one possessed or used drugs is not equivalent to evidence that one refused to participate in drug treatment.")

Savage v. Maine Pretrial Services, Inc., 2013 ME 9 (2013)

(Jody Savage appeals from a judgment dismissing Count I of her complaint alleging that the termination of her employment by Maine Pretrial Services was a violation of the Maine Medical Use of Marijuana Act (MMUMA or Act), 22 M.R.S. § 2421-2430-B (2012). She argues that her application for a license to operate a medical marijuana dispensary was "authorized conduct" within the meaning of the Act and her subsequent termination was thus a penalty prohibited by the Act. We affirm the trial court's judgment dismissing Count I of Savage's complaint.)

In re the matter of R.A., 280 P. 3d 366, 2012 OK CIV APP 65 (2012) (“Based upon our review of the record, this Court finds the three ISPs entered in this case failed to adequately address the actual "condition" Mother needs to correct — her mental illness. Mother's substance abuse clearly follows and flows directly from her mental health condition. Matter of C.R.T., , 66 P.3d at 1010. Mother's history of significant trauma leading her to need to self-medicate is a condition that the psychological evaluation and Ms. Wilburn both conceded could not be corrected "solely through the efforts of Mother" without "medical, psychiatric, and psychological intervention." Id., 66 P.3d at 1009. As such, termination of Mother's parental rights based upon a failure to correct conditions where Mother's mental health condition was not correctly identified and/or addressed by DHS constitutes a violation of Mother's substantive due process rights.[fn9]Id. ¶ 34 Additionally, the ISPs failed to effectively offer Mother the "opportunity to ameliorate [her] condition and to effectively defend against termination efforts" by failing to adequately address her mental illness. Matter of C.G. , 637 P.2d at 68. While evidence was presented to show Mother failed to correct the conditions stated in her ISPs, the ISPs failed to properly identify, address or offer services specifically directed to the recognized cause of Mother's substance abuse — her severe mental health issues. In failing to incorporate the information and recommendations garnered from Mother's November 2010 court-ordered psychological evaluation into her ISP, Mother was not afforded the full spectrum of procedural safeguards to guard against termination of her parental rights.”)
